Texas Independence Day, Mar 2 (Scott #776)

Editor's Corner

To celebrate Texas Independence Day, March 2, We thought you might like to know a bit about the stamp at the head of this page. This information is from Wikipedia. If you're interested, there is a lot more info here, http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Republic_of_Texas , that is worth the read.

Texas Independence Day, Mar 2 (Scott #2204)

The Republic of Texas was an independent sovereign country in North America that existed from March 2, 1836, to February 19, 1846. It was bordered by the nation of Mexico to the southwest, the Gulf of Mexico to the southeast, the two U.S. states of Louisiana and Arkansas to the east and northeast, and the United States territories encompassing the current U.S. states of Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, and New Mexico to the north and west. The citizens of the Republic were known as Texians. San Antonio was the largest city in the Republic.

Formed as a separate nation after gaining independence from Mexico in 1836, the Republic claimed borders that included all of the present U.S. state of Texas as well as parts of present-day Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, and New Mexico based upon the Treaties of Velasco between the newly created Texas Republic and Mexico. The eastern boundary with the United States was defined by the Adams-Onís Treaty between the United States and Spain in 1819. Its southern and western-most boundary with Mexico was under dispute throughout the entire existence of the republic with Texas claiming the boundary as the Rio Grande (known as the Río Bravo del Norte or Río Bravo in Mexico), and Mexico claiming the boundary as the Nueces River. This dispute would later become a trigger for the Mexican–American War from 1846 to 1848 between Mexico and the United States after the annexation of Texas by the United States on December 29, 1845.

WE WELCOME VISITORS

SAPA is always happy to welcome visitors. We hope you will enjoy our activities and wish to join us as members.

All visitors are welcome to purchase stamps at our auctions, bourses and bag nights. Anyone wishing to sell or trade at our meetings must be a member.

AUCTION ETIQUETTE :

Be sure to get your Bidder's number card before the auction starts. Come early and look over the lots for sale before the auction. During the auction, lots will be identified by their lot number and a brief description of the lot.

When bidding for a lot, please raise your Bidder's Number card and keep it up until you no longer wish to bid. Flipping the card up and down is confusing for the auctioneers.

Please keep extraneous conversation to a minimum. This makes it easier for everyone to hear what the auctioneer is selling, and allows the auctioneer to more easily keep track of the bidding.

While your purchases will be given to you during the auction, please wait until the end of the auction to pay for them. Your name will be called as the tallys are completed. Those who are only buying will be called first. Buyers who are also sellers will be called next. Checks made out to S.A.P.A. are acceptable. Sellers with unsold lots should be sure to pick up their lots before leaving.

Please be sure to return the Bidder's Number cards so that we can use them again in the following auctions.

We look forward to meeting you.

President's Message

I just finished packing for my trip up to Dallas this week to attend the TEXPEX stamp show this weekend. I'm looking forward to attending because I have not been able to attend one of the large out of town shows for several years.

I made my hotel reservation several weeks ago but had not checked the address because I thought I knew where it was. Luckily, last night I decided to plug the address into Google maps to plan my route through Dallas. Good thing because I was way off and would have been at a totally different hotel.

It got me thinking about how our mail service in the old days located someone. I have an old cover addressed to a Mr. A. Garrett, Indianopolis, Indiana. How did the mail man deliver this letter? Did they look up an address in some kind of directory or just hold it at the main post office until someone showed up?

I think I might do some research on how the early mail was delivered for a future presentation. For now, thank God for Google maps and GPS.

PROGRAM NOTES 2015

Mar 20 - "Holidays on Postcards" By Chip Swinney Well, folks, we are truly in for a treat. Those of you who have seen Chip's postcards know exactly what I mean. It is always a pleasure to see his vintage collection. I wonder what he has added to it since last he spoke. (Oops, I'm already in the mood!!! I am waxing nostalgic as we speak!)

Chip, we are looking forward to seeing those gorgeous cards again, and you too.

Yours in Philately, Pat Richmond

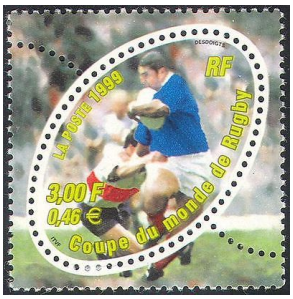
"Stamps in Special Shapes"

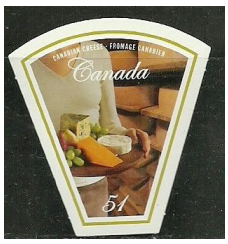
By Lea Senghaas

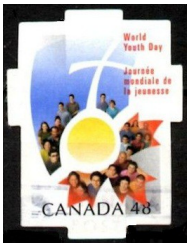
January 23, 2015

Here we have a sneaky picture of Lea Senghaas when she originally presented part of her vast collection titled "I Can't Believe It's a Stamp" It is amazing how much she was able to accrue. She is truly a grand collector.

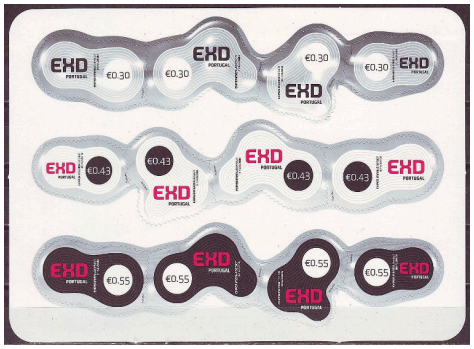
On the 23rd of January, she shared with us just the part of her collection that concerned special shapes. She started with simple shapes of stamps, and then the more complex shapes.

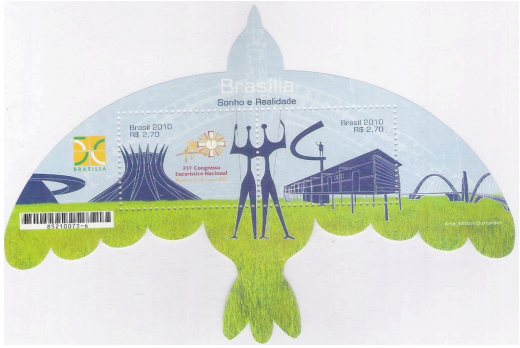






Then Lea shared with us a myriad of irregularly shaped stamps, odd-shaped souvenir sheets (some with odd-shaped stamps on them), and odd-shaped booklets.





One would have difficulty naming a shape that is not considered in her collection. Lea added that if you find something unusual, would you please let her know so that she can go looking for her own copy of it?

Thank you Lea for sharing your vast collection with us. We were truly informed.

Yours in Philately, Pat Richmond
